

Re-defining COMMUNITY

THE QUALITIES OF LIFE
AT HOME

Jeffrey Billhuber

PHOTOGRAPHY BY TREL BROCK

RIZZOLI
NEW YORK

ABOVE: These rooms simply couldn't exist without red. It unites the forms and objects in the enfilade that follows. OPPOSITE: We purchased this Zajac & Callahan mirror at the Winter Antiques Show in New York, and it drove all other decisions.

ABOVE AND OPPOSITE: Color and ornament are sometimes inseparable. The red Venetian glass chandelier hangs over a studded lacquered leather center table.

RIGHT: This dining room was built specifically to accommodate twenty-four people at the table, because the members of this family regularly get together and celebrate with each other. PAGES 236–37: There’s something so joyful about this type of abundance. What’s more delightful than a cornucopia of roses, tulips, and fruit? PAGES 238–39: To really make the light dance around this room, we’ve used a pair of mirrors to reflect the chandeliers.

